Watching what happened in the Capital last week and learning that some of the capital police force were complicit and sided with the folks who rushed and occupied the Capital building, I am wondering about our police force. How do we in Missoula know that we have a police force that are true to their code and ethics? I would hate to see any take a radicalization position in their private life that goes against the code. There ought to be a briefing of the police chief and his fellow members on this issue and a briefing between the police chief and city council. This will give us security that all is well in our city in case there is a radical movement in Missoula during this national political upheaval. Thanks. Patrick Weasel Head
